WASHINGTON- Congressman Lee Terry (R-NE) has been honored with the Thomas Jefferson Award by the International Foodservice Distributors Association. The award honors lawmakers for their commitment to reduce taxes and regulations for businesses.

"I am honored to receive such a prestigious award. I constantly fight for less government and fewer regulations. Businesses like the foodservice industry are critical to our Nebraska economy and I am happy to support their commitment to our free enterprise system," said Congress.

-30-