

WASHINGTON- Today Congressman Lee Terry (R-NE) wrote a letter to House Majority Leader Steny Hoyer urging him to work on a bi-partisan national energy policy to increase domestic energy production from American resources.

"The greatest threat to our national security is our country's continuing dependence on foreign oil. I was pleased to hear that the House Democratic Caucus is not opposed to drilling and supports greater domestic oil production. It is time to stop playing partisan games and work together on a comprehensive energy policy. The American people deserve better," said Congressman Terry.
