

WASHINGTON- Today Congressman Lee Terry (R-NE), joined by several other GOP members called to free up U.S. energy resources to combat skyrocketing prices for fuel.

"Sitting by and doing nothing is unacceptable and the American people deserve better. We must bring a comprehensive energy plan to the floor now. We must use our own resources to achieve lower gas prices. That means using oil shale, off shore, coal to liquid, ethanol, cellulosic ethanol fuel and nuclear power which reduces our dependence from OPEC oil. This is all about basic high school economics--supply and demand. We have our own resources right here, we need to start using them today. If we do this I guarantee prices will do down," said Congressman Terry.
