

House Energy and Commerce Committee Republicans have yanked a key witness from Wednesday's Keystone XL pipeline hearing after a spat with the State Department over protocol.

The committee announced Tuesday that Mike Linder, director of the Nebraska Department of Environmental Quality, will not testify at the hearing on President Obama's decision to reject the Alberta-to-Texas pipeline.

To continue reading this article click here .